

Tweezers Alley

(190 The Strand Public Realm Improvements, London)

Case Study

Contractor: Maylim Limited

Client: London Borough of Westminster

From the North of Scotland to the centre of London.

Stone quarried in Northern Caithness, Scotland; cut shaped and polished at the factory near Thurso and then assembled to form a large split level planter at Tweezer Alley.

Supply included polished sections of Caithness stone in large shaped coping and cladding units assembled over 2 levels to form an attractive and functional large Planter unit.

Tapered sections both in height and length including special angled corners all had to be produced on CNC machine for accuracy.
